With F.M.L.

Do yourself a favor. Buy your $2.50 ticket for the 7:30 p.m. Tuesday evening performance of the Dallas Symphony, featuring cello soloist Ralph Kirshbaum and Anshel Bruislow directing.

It is at Cameron National Guard Armory.

Reserve your ticket or group of tickets, for many people are getting up parties of friends, for the performance. Call the Cameron Chamber, Cameron 697-6671 or Rockdale 446-5822 or 446-2102 which connects by direct line without charge for reservations.

Tickets must be picked up and paid for by 5 p.m. Friday, January 7, Chamber personnel are marking reserved seats on a seating chart, which shows only 750 seats for the evening performance.

"Standing room only" tickets will be available at National Guard Armory the night of the performance and whatever remaining reserved seats still available. But you risk having no seat if you wait past Friday at 5 p.m.

So many people by now, going into the hundreds, are involved in making January 11-12 Dallas Symphony appearance that a blanket congratulations to a community aroused to finer things is the only certain way of giving recognition.

Leaders already have been designated. They are doing a fine job.

112-112-112

We would like to clarify the schedule of the Symphony events of January 11:

1:30 p.m. - 2:15 p.m.: Cameron Independent School District grades one through six. . . Separate program

2:45 p.m. - 3:30 p.m.: Cameron Junior High, Yoe High School students, junior and senior high students from surrounding districts. . .Separate program

7:30 p.m.: The Dallas Symphony in concert, with cellist Ralph Kirshbaum and conductor Ansehl Bruislow. Third concert of the day, featuring classics by Ravel, Tchaikovsy, Wagner and Rimsky-Korsakov.

We emphasize the Symphony will present three distinct programs, the afternoon student performances directed toward the age level and tastes of grades 1-6 and grades 7-12.

The evening performance will feature one of the finest young cellists in the country, Mr. Kirshbaum, whose notices for performances in Europe and the United States are quite good.

Mr. Brusilow will conduct a balance of Wagnerian drama with lighter veins of Richard Strauss, Rimskey-Korsakov through the romantic tones of Ravel.

It will be a great evening for fine music in a town whose musical tastes are certain to range from Western to classics. But these tastes can meld in the polish of a fine major orchestra and the touch of the Kirshbaum cello.

112-112-112

The Symphony event goes into a second day Wednesday when the YHS Band hosts first chair musicians of brass, woodwind and percussion sections of the Symphony in a clinic. It is sponsored by Yoe Band Boosters.

This is a touch urged by YHS director Dalton Harbers. Many exceptional volunteer efforts bring this event into a memorable perspective. And with this experience, others will be easy.

112-112-112

This is a touch of beauty and taste and grace, perhaps, all our lives require, though we may be the last to admit it.

We believe this Symphony can do that much for Cameron.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS and these preferred the adventure of a frosty morning to the warmth of the Ada Henderson School Wednesday when temperatures dipped to a chilly 18 degrees in Cameron.

Winter Storm Brings 18° Low

It was cold, cold cold in Central Texas Wednesday morning as the temperature plunged to 18 degrees following an icy Tuesday after the first major winter storm howled through Texas.

Freezing rain Tuesday night and morning iced bridges and some roads in the Milam area but the rain stopped before city streets were covered.

However, Texas Highway Department maintenance crews had to sand all bridges in the county, which were reported iced over. Several minor accidents were reported caused by the weather conditions but none were serious.

The extreme cold followed on the heels of rainy weather, which has hampered field work by area farmers. Cotton in the Maysfield area, which had to be replanted following a hailstorm last spring, is still in the fields waiting to be harvested.

At least the winter promises to be wetter than that of 1971, when far below normal rainfall was recorded for the county.

TP&L Gets Increase

The Cameron city council agreed to give Texas Power and Light Co. a 6 percent, across the board increase in rates at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

Henry Siebman, TP&L manager, appeared before the council to make the request. He emphasized that this was the first increase asked since 1951. The new rates will go into effect with the April billing.

In other business, the council called a city election for April 4 to elect a mayor and two councilmen. Terms of Councilmen Monroe Fuchs and Lester Turner will expire then, also the term of Mayor E. A. Perrin, who has already stated that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

Bids were opened on a new grader for the street department, and were tabled for awarding at the next meeting. Bids were awarded to Texaco for regular gasoline and diesel fuel, and to Arco for premium gasoline.

E. A. Bigbee, building code inspector, appeared before the council and reported on the new forms drawn up for building permits which will comply with the Southern Building Code.

Mayor Perrin reported on progress of the storm drainage project, which is awaiting approval from Washington.

Accident Kills Cameron Soldier

A Cameron soldier died Tuesday morning of a single gunshot wound in the forehead. Sheriff Carl Black said the shot appeared to have been accidentally self-inflicted.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Newton Hospital about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday was Sgt. Freddie Douglas Capers, 34, of 1108 N. Polk, Cameron.

Capers' wife told Sheriff Black that her husband had started to Ft. Hood Tuesday morning but turned back because of icy road conditions. She said he was cleaning his 32 pistol in the bedroom when she heard a shot and rushed in to find him stretched across the bed, the pistol beside him.

Sheriff Black said there were several Army buttons and watches in a box on the bed that Capers had apparently gotten out to clean.

Capers, father of 5 children, had been in the service for 17 years and was stationed at Ft. Hood.

Livestock Show Entries Increase

About 175 entries are expected in this year's Milam County Junior Livestock Show, a big gain over last year's 104 entries.

The show will be held Saturday, January 15 at the Cameron Compress building and FHA and 4-H youth from all over the county will vie for trophies and prize money.

Tickets are being sold on a butcher calf and butcher hog to be given away at the show and proceeds from the sales go to provide the show prizes.

First Candidates File For Election

Four incumbents and two first-time candidates have filed for office in Milam County, according to C. R. (Roy) Law, chairman of the county Democratic Party.

Incumbents are Carl C. Black for sheriff; V. T. White for county tax assessor - collector; Adolph Gresak, commissioner of Precinct 1; and J. M. Terry, constable of Precinct 1.

Marvin W. Cotten has filed for Constable, Precinct 3, and H. N. (Spud) Caywood has filed for Constable Precinct 4. Both are first-time candidates, Law said.

Law said applications for places on the official ballot must be in proper form and in the hands of the County Chairman not later than 6 p.m. on February 7.

Law may be reached by phone at 697-3112 or at Route 1, Box 186, Cameron.

A $50 cash deposit is required to be paid when the application is filed, Law said.

Patrolmen Report Weekend Accidents

No fatalities were recorded in Milam County over the New Year weekend although several accidents were reported by highway patrolmen.

Patrolman Jerry Randall reported two accidents Friday night, the first at 6:15 one mile east of Gause on Highway 79. A pickup driven by Henry Chandler of Gause ran off the road and turned over. Chandler and a passenger, Harry Bowling, were taken to a Hearne hospital and treated for cuts and bruises.

The second was at 8:40 p.m. two miles north of Rockdale on Farm Road 1712. Ronald G. Mercer of Freeport, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mercer of Cameron, was injured when the Volkswagen he was driving ran off the road and hit a tree. Mercer is reported in satisfactory condition in a local hospital.

Patrolman Leroy Broadus investigated a minor accident Saturday morning at the intersection of Highways 36 and 77. A car driven by James Mortimer slid off wet pavement and tore down several highway signs. He was not injured.

At 5 a.m. Monday a tractor semi-trailer truck accident was investigated by Randall. The fifth wheel of the trailer came off, the trailer overturned, and its load of 97 bales of cotton was spilled on Highway 36-79 one half mile east of Milano. The driver, Clyde Price of Rogers was not injured.

And on Monday night a car driven by Donald Flores of Temple ran off Farm Road 486 and cut off several highway reflector posts and a telephone pole. No injuries were reported and minor damage was done to the vehicle.

City police reported an accident at 9:25 on Friday. A car driven by George Green of Cameron hit a utility pole guy wire and overturned at Vine and West Main. Green was not injured.

Explosion, Fire Damage Alcoa Powder Plant

An explosion and accompanying fire of undetermined origin occurred at 5:45 a.m. Sunday, January 2 in the atomized aluminum powder plant at Alcoa's Rockdale Works.

According to an Alcoa spokesman seven employees were working in the area at the time but all escaped serious injury. The company official termed extent of the damage as moderate, adding that the powder plant will be out of production a short time.

Cause of the explosion was under investigation this week by Alcoa personnel from Rockdale and Pittsburg.

Atomized powder is used chiefly in paint pigment, aluminum powder metallurgy and chemical products.

Dinner To Kickoff 1972 MOD Drive

The annual March of Dimes kick-off dinner will be held Thursday, Jan. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Western Room of the Texan, with Mrs. Mary Cook, Rockdale school nurse as guest speaker.

Don Jones, area MOD representative from Austin, will present a film on birth defects, which, along with polio, is the object of the annual fund drive.

James Hudson will again be county campaign manager, according to Max McClaren, county MOD chapter chairman.

Approximately 25 community workers from the county are expected to attend.

Harper Outlines Alcoa's Prospects For 1972

Prospects for Alcoa and the nation's aluminum industry are visibly brighter for the year ahead, John D. Harper, chairman and chief executive officer of Alcoa, said in an annual review commentary. He added:

"Our forecasts indicate that industry shipments next year should show an increase of seven to 10 percent over 1971, assuming the U.S. economy evidences real growth in the range of five to seven percent. The gain is about four percent this year, reflecting drastically reduced exports and a relatively slow recovery at home.

"Business is picking up in most major markets, and an earlier deterioration of prices has stabilized. The recent action of the Price Commission in approving an overall average 4.2 percent price increase will permit Alcoa to recover higher costs to the extent that market conditions will allow.

"Great opportunities lie ahead for aluminum, which traditionally has shown significantly more growth than the general economy, but always is dependent upon it.

"Consequently, aluminum producers have had to recognize that growth for growth's sake is self defeating. Gearing production and new facilities to market projections is an economic necessity."

WORLDWIDE SURPLUS

Harper noted that with a worldwide surplus of aluminum production capacity, nearly all domestic and overseas producers have cut primary output and extended their time schedules on expansion programs "to bring new facilities into production at more advantageous times." These moves, he said, will tend to ease the international dilemma of excess supply imbalance and depressed prices.

Alcoa, he said, currently is operating at 83.1 percent of its rated installed capacity of 1,475,000 tons a year of primary metal. Production cutbacks have been made at smelters at Alcoa, Tenn., Badin, N.C., Evansville, Ind., Massena, N.Y., Rockdale, Texas, and Wenatchee, Wash., and a potline will be shut down at Vancouver, Wash. on January 7.

The most active markets for Alcoa aluminu, Harper said, continue to be the construction, transportation, electrical and packaging industries. From Alcoa Laboratories in recent years have come such market - boosting developments as easy-open ends for all types of rigid containers, aluminum radiators for automobiles, and the revolutionary Alumiframe system of building construction.

MARKETING AREA

In the marketing area, Harper noted these Alcoa highlights.

Shipments for commercial, industrial and monumental building and residential construction continue to improve. Installation of curtain wall of Alcoa aluminum is nearing completion on the twin towers of the World Trade Center in New York. In Chicago, more than 4,000,000 pounds of Alcoa aluminum sheet will cover the 109 - story Sears Tower -- which will top the World Trade Center, now the world's tallest building.

The Alcoa Aluminframe system, which replaces wood framing with aluminum is being developed worldwide. Projects in which Alumiframe is being used include 50 homes at Huntington Beach, Calif., 128 townhouse units at Kona, Hawaii, and 400 homes in Western Australia.

TRANSPORTATION

In the transportation market, heavy duty trucks, trailers and other commercial vehicles are using increasing quantities of aluminum. Sales of Alcoa forged disc wheels for trucks are up sharply over previous levels, because of new government regulations on truck weight and auto safety and engine emissions, manufacturers are investigating additional use of aluminum in bodies and bumpers.

Shipments of aluminum conductor and accessories are being spurred by the nation's increasing demand for electricity. New Alcoa developments include a unique dip - soldering process for joining aluminum to dissimilar metals in electrical joints and fittings.

Packaging in 1972 will rank as one of the strongest domestic growth markets for aluminum. Billions of beverage cans -- many of them recycled through Alcoa's "Yes We Can" reclamation program -- are all-aluminum. A new can developed by Alcoa -- the Featherlite -- is 20 percent lighter than conventional aluminum cans.

Henderson Steps Aside After 2 Terms

County-Atty. John B. Henderson, Jr., has announced he will not seek re-election to the office in Milam County.

In a letter to the press, he said: "After giving the matter careful consideration for several months, I have decided that it would be best for me to return to full time private practice of law here in Cameron.

"As you remember, I was appointed to serve an unexpired term for this office beginning in June of 1963. I was elected to four-year terms in 1964 and 1968. In each instance I was unopposed.

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the Judges, Court officials and all law enforcement officers who I have worked with in serving the citizens of Milam County as their County Attorney since 1963."

FIRST 1972 BABY in Cameron is Henry William, 7 pound 4 ounce son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Brantley of Cameron. He was born at 10:20 p.m. January 1 at St. Edward Hospital.

Worth The Trip...

The year 1972 will be the year of building in Cameron downtown and continued improvement in the housing picture.

It will likely be the year when Cameron Independent School District will lay out plans for decisions on new construction and modernization in its physical plant.

It will likely be the year when each additional street improvement will link already improved streets to create a network of modern streets.

It will be a year in which employment will continue at a peak with the new housing and downtown construction and create new interest to industry and agri-business.

A brief drive around town, almost any part now, will demonstrate the spreading effect of the major changes downtown.

Hardly a block among blocks surrounding, but outside the downtown area is without some kind of construction or remodeling, clearing or anticipation of such.

The year 1972 is a turning point in culture with the Dallas Symphony's three concerts and YHS band clinic this month.

As hub of agri-business Milam County, Cameron will see continued modernization along the network of paved federal, state and farm-to-market roads. New bridges gradually will replace old iron models, such as the new concrete Black Bridge.

New technics will continue to develop in agriculture, the prospect good compared to a year ago when ground moisture dried to drought proportions before August, 1971, rains broke.

A lot of planning is literally surfacing throughout the Cameron-Milam area. The impact of vast rural water systems will reach through areas from Thorndale to Milano to Rogers into Falls County.

In short, the year 1972 will be the link between planning and dismantling of 1969-71 to a newer, modern Cameron of the mid-70s.

The year 1972 is a final year of transition and by year's end perhaps the first year of a new era in Cameron and Milam County.

It is a road long traveled, but worth the trip.

Court Ruling Triggers Round Of School Studies

By Bill Boykin

A three - judge federal court in San Antonio stunned Texas public officials with a Christmas Eve decision that the state's system of financing public schools is unconstitutional.

The ruling, which Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes called one of the most - far - reaching in recent history, triggered a round of new studies and re-directed attention to prior studies of alternative finance formulas.

To make education "a function of the local property tax base" violates constitutional guarantees of equal protection under the laws, the three judges held. Parents and children of Edgewood Independent School District (Bexar County) filed the suit on July 30, 1968.

Allowing each district to set property taxes to raise a portion of instructional costs discriminates against poor districts with low property values and frequently high minority group populations, the court contended.

Judges gave state legislators two years to work out a new system. If lawmakers fail, they warned, the court "will take such further steps as may be necessary to implement both the purpose and the spirit of this order."

Some observers feared the ruling would undermine local control of school districts. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin asked the court to clarify whether the decision meant districts could not continue to pay off their bonds from property taxes.

Gov. Preston Smith said it would be premature to speculate on ultimate effect of the ruling on taxes and educational programs. Some predicted state corporate and personal income taxes will be necessary to pick up a new state cost load estimated to range at least as high as $500 million a biennium.

Smith called for a team effort by state officials and agencies, local school authorities and the courts to reach a satisfactory solution. The Senate Committee on Occupational Education immediately took up the problem. Texas Research League already is studying the foundation school program, and plans to offer some choices by the end of next year.

Governor said he is considering naming an education task force which will cooperate with other study groups.

State Education Commissioner Dr. J. W. Edgar viewed the present crisis "as another opportunity for the people to design a better public educational opportunity for the children and youth of Texas." He expressed confidence such a plan can be developed which will preserve local school control.

State Board of Education will review the decision at a January 8 meeting. Meanwhile, Martin asked the court whether the ruling permits an appeal.

WELFARE PROBLEMS

Warning that Texas faces its most - difficult welfare problems during the next two years, Governor Smith said drastic assistance cuts may be necessary after next September.

At the same time, the Governor announced appointment of former U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Wilbur Cohen as a special advisor to help him formulate plans in the areas of welfare and child development.

Smith said he will go before the U.S. Senate finance committee next month to renew a plea for complete federalization of welfare program financing.

Current assistance levels can be maintained within the state's $80 million constitutional ceiling for major categorical welfare programs the rest of this fiscal year. After next September, however, he said average aid to families with dependent chilkren grants may have to be slashed from $116.66 a month to $77.

Smith assigned to priority to attacking the growing welfare problem, which he estimated will cost $325 million next year. He said findings of a new commission on children and youth will be among cornerstones of his message to the 1972 special legislative session.

REDISTRICT SUIT

A three - judge federal court was due to begin trial Monday (January 3) of suits attacking 1971 legislative redistricting.

The consolidated cases were filed in Dallas, Houston, Tyler and San Antonio and transferred to Austin for hearing.

Judges originally named University of Texas law partner George Schatzki a special master to collect evidence and draw conclusions in the cases. However, the order naming Schatzki was rescinded after Attorney General Martin and State Democratic Chairman Roy Orr complained of the professor's former close professional relationship with attorneys and plaintiffs in the cases.

Houston attorney Leon Jaworski will direct the state's defense as a special attorney.

AG OPINIONS

Private clubs in dry areas may buy beer from a general distributor and transport it in under proper permits and written agreements, Attorney General Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

* Microfilms of student loan applications are not legal documents.

* The Texas International Trade Office in Mexico City may use state funds to buy Mexican postage stamps.

* Counties can buy two-way radios for sheriffs' personally - owned cars.

* Only two types of lifesavers equipment meet requirements of a new law requiring children 12 and under to wear life preservers in motorboats.

* State employees can travel first class on airlines, even if cheaper tourist seats are available.

DDT BAN ANNOUNCED

DDT will not be allowed for household use in Texas after August 31, under an order issued by Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

White's order follows recommendations of the Pesticide Advisory Committee created by the legislature.

Whit emphasized it has no bearing on DDT for agriculture and public health uses. About half DDT now used in the state is utilized around the home. After August, registration of DDT for household purposes will not be permitted.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Extended unemployment compensation benefits will go into effect early in January.

January 10 is the first date claims may be filed for them in Texas. Benefits are payable only to claimants who have exhausted regular benefits. Claimants may receive as much as 50 per cent of total regular unemployment benefits, payable at the same weekly rate as regular benefits. Those covered must not be eligible for regular benefits in any state or territory and must have a benefit year that ends on or after January 2.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

According to an article I read during one of the half-times last weekend, when Congress gets back into session shortly the only woman in the United States Senate is going to propose a Constitutional amendment requiring members of Congress to be on hand oftener.

Absenteeism, she said, is the Senate's greatest disgrace and she is going to introduce a Constitutional amendment providing for the automatic expulsion of any Senator or House member not present for at least 60 per cent of the roll call votes in any session.

This is dangerous legislation and I hope the absent Senators and Congressmen will show up long enough to vote against it.

You require a Senator or a Congressman to work 60 per cent of the time and the first thing you know some Washington bureaucrat will get the notion the rule ought to apply to everybody.

I don't want anybody coming out here to ~~may~~ place telling me if I don't work 60 per cent of the time I'll be expelled. I can't imagine Congress declaring it's unconstitutional to loaf.

Personally I always work more than 60 per cent of the time, but I work under my definition of the word, not some woman Senator's.

I don't know what Senators and Congressmen do while they're gone 40 per cent of the time, outside of running for President, but they've been on hand often enough now to pass more laws that most of us can obey.

Work is something I don't want anybody coming around to tell me what it is, and you can straighten out the grammar if you want to Mayor Lindsay of New York knows what I'm talking about. While in Florida last week announcing he's running for President and will campaign all around the country, and when asked what about his job as mayor, he said "I'm mayor of New York 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

Those are my sentiments exactly. I run this place 24 hours a day seven days a week and it'd scare me to death to have some woman Senator come out here and pick my notion of work to pieces with a fine - tooth comb. I admire Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine but this time she's gone too far.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Duels Still Fought In Uruguay

By Albert Clack
Reuter Correspondent

BUENOS AIRES

Two retired Uruguayan generals took the traditional way to settle a dispute following the country's national elections in November -- they fought a duel.

While Latin America struggles to bring itself up to date economically and politically, the archaic custom of dueling remains in several countries and is legal under certain conditions.

Early in December, the two generals, both defeated presidential candidates in the electrions, fought out their problems with pistols on an airfield near Montevideo. They both emerged unscathed but with honor apparently satisfied.

Gen. Liber Seregni, the candidate of the leftwing broad front, challenged Gen. Juan Pedro Ribas, a candidate for a minor faction of the ruling Colorado party, after Ribas had called Sergeni "a disgrace to the armed forces."

Gen. Ribas had also said on television that Gen. Seregni was a "traitor and a deserter" for dropping out of the Colorado party and joining with communists and socialists.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Right to March

Fed up with public commotion, the city fathers in a certain community decided to strike a decisive blow for peace and quiet. Henceforth, they decreed, there would be no parades of any kind on the city streets.

Within days, a group of dissenters went marching in defiance of the new ordinance. Hauled into court, they claimed that the ban was unconstitutional.

"Not so," replied the city. "Under our charter, we have the authority to keep the public peace as we see fit."

But the court decided that the ordinance was indeed unconstitutional, and that the paraders could not be punished. The court said:

"It has been customary from time immemorial, in all free countries, for people to parade together. These processions are among the incidental conditions of city life, and are as much to be expected as any other public meetings."

Of course, an outright ban on all parades is not common. Very common, however, is a requirement that paraders must first get a permit. Is this lesser restriction constitutional?

Mainly, it depends on the ground rules under which the permits are issued. In one city, the mayor had unlimited discretion as to who could have a permit and who could not. This arrangement, tested in court, was thrown out as unconstitutional. The court said the right to march was too precious to be subject to the whim of any official.

But under the rules in another city, the mayor could not refuse a permit unless the marchers would be interfering unduly with the rights of other citizens in the use of the streets.

This time, when a religious sect put on a parade without a permit, a court upheld the law and fined the paraders for disobeying it. The court said the right to march, like all other rights, could be confined within reasonable limits.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

BILL ENDS FORCED UNION MEMBERSHIP

REP. O.C. FISHER (Texas) ". . .The gentleman from Arizona (Mr. Steiger) has introduced H.R. 11827 -- a bill to preserve and protect the free choice of individual employees to form, join or assist labor organizations, or to, refrain from such activities. I was pleased to join as a co-sponsor of this legislation.

"I would like to ask my fellow Members of Congress and the American people if they know what Walter Cronkite, Eric Sevareid, William F. Buckley, Jr., David Brinkley, Mike Wallace, Frank McGee, Daniel Schorr, and James J. Kilpatrick have in common besides being well-known commentators on commercial television?

"The answer is that all are required to be dues-paying members of a private organization -- in this case the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists -- AFTRA -- or they cannot broadcast over the public airways. . .

"Is this the American way? Bill Buckley does not think so and filed suit against AFTRA. The formal complaint says that the compulsory unionism requirement deprives him of "his property without due process of law, and breaches his rights under the first, fifth and ninth amendments of the Constitution, which amendments guarantee the individual citizen freedom of association, freedom to pursue the occupation of his choice, freedom from unwarranted invasion of privacy and other fundamental personal and private rights. . .

"But that is lawyer talk. "Here is how the eloquent Mr. Buckley describes it: 'What is involved here is a fundamental civil and human right. And unless this country has lost hold of its reason, the Supreme Court will acknowledge, as I am confident it will, the right of the individual to exercise his rights as guaranteed under the first amendment, even if he declines to join a union'..."

"It is indeed difficult for Americans to understand why union officials should have such a weapon and it is time for Congress to step in where up to now the courts have feared to tread. It is time that all Americans have the right to work without being forced to pay tribute to a labor boss. Or maybe we should quit pretending this is a free country."

* * * * *

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

The result of Bill Buckley's law suit could result in major changes in union contracts.

In the beginning the union leaders, and rightly so, claimed that non-members were reaping some of the benefits of union leadership -- without helping with the expense. The public agreed with this claim. But public support began to wain when strikes began to victimize the general public and also employees of industries not directly involved in the dispute. People were victimized who could in no way have a hand in settling the strike.

The victims are contacting their congressmen -- and they're listening.-J.C.

PEANUT QUOTAS

Peanut growers by a large percentage have approved use of marketing quotas for the peanut crops to be produced in 1972, 1973, and 1974, it was announced today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In the preliminary tabulation of mailed results of a Dec. 6-10 referendum, 97.4 percent of the growers voting approved continuing quotas for another three-year period. Of the 43,625 ballots cast, 42,488 were for and 1,137 against.

Total votes cast in the referendum compares with a total of 50,358 cast in a December 1968 referendum on quotas for the 1969, 1970, and 1971 crops. The favorable vote in the 1968 referendum was 48,808, or 96 percent in favor.

While legislation requires that the Secretary of Agriculture proclaim a peanut marketing quota each year regardless of the supply, the quotas may not go into effect unless approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum on the question.

Peanut marketing quotas have been in effect since 1949. Since growers now have approved quotas for another three-year period, it will not be necessary for them to vote again before 1974.

Under the quota program, marketing penalties will apply to "excess" peanuts produced by growers who do not comply with their acreage allotments. Price support will be available to "eligible" growers (who comply with their peanut allotments) at the full level of available support. The law directs peanut price support under quotas at a level between 75 and 90 percent of parity. The marketing quota penalty is equal to 75 percent of the price-support level.

More than 2,000,000 home kitchens are being remodeled this year, estimates one dealer group. Costs range from $3,000 to $20,000.

Estimated Tax Due For Farmers

Farmers, ranchers and fisherman were reminded today that Monday, January 17, is the last day for filing their estimated Federal income tax returns for 1971, unless they plan filing their final return and paying the entire tax due on or before Wednesday, March 1, 1972.

A. P. Andrews, administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service was in Temple, explained that those farmers, ranchers and fishermen who file an estimated return on January 17 and pay the tax due thereon have until April 17 to file their final return and pay any balance of tax due. Otherwise, the law requires that they file their final return and pay the full amount of the tax due by March 1.

4-H Club Projects Teach More Than Animal Care And Feeding

'4-H Club' generally brings a mental picture of rural youngsters learning the care and feeding of farm animals through individual projects. But this is less than half the story with Milam County 4-H Clubs where more than 175 girls are learning homemaking arts and gaining leadership skills in eleven area clubs.

Miss Christine Laws, county home demonstration agent, said that though the 4-H Club is "co-educational", actual learning projects separate the boys from the girls.

"We have 45 different project areas in the 4-H program," Miss Laws said. Of particular interest to girls are projects in foods and nutrition, clothing, money management, child care and housing and home furnishings.

County - wide emphasis this month will be on foods and nutrition in preparation for the spring Foods Show. Local clubs will decide their unit of interest such as "Exploring Foods the Picnic Way," or "Food and Fun," and "Outdoor - Indoor Meals." If a group selects "Food and Fun" for their study they will learn to plan and prepare foods for a party, table service and party manners, all divided into six lessons under the guidance of volunteer adult leaders.

And it is far from a classroom type lesson, Miss Laws explains. The girls learn by "doing", they keep records on their projects and later in the year will have an opportunity to demonstrate what they have learned.

Emphasis on clothing will begin in the spring. Here school age girls will learn to make, and in some instances, design clothes for themselves. This unit of work is concluded in June with a 4-H Dress Review where the girls model clothes they have made for county judging.

Another popular unit of study is the Housing and Home Furnishing section. In this study girls can learn the elements of design, home comfort and safety, principles of color and home decorating.

In addition to the study projects, 4-H'ers receive valuable training in leadership and citizenship. Local clubs meet monthly to discuss and plan fund raising projects and local, district and state activities. Local officers are elected at these meetings as well as representatives for the county 4-H Council. Miss Laws said the Council approves projects and sets the annual budget. "The council usually has about $500 to $600 to budget," Miss Laws said, "And this is all money that they have earned through such activities as the Livestock Show concession stand."

National theme this year is "4-H Bridges the Gap". Miss Laws explained that this encompassed more than just the generation gap, "It includes the gap in local, county, state and national problems."

Membership for the year-round 4-H program is open to all school age young - people. Miss Laws said there are no dues and anyone interested in joining may either call or write the local County Extension office.

Local clubs are active in Cameron, Rockdale, Thorndale, Minerva, Burlington, Davilla, Gause, Maysfield, Branchville and Griffins Chapel.

Mini-Room Expands Home At Low Cost

From the time he built his first crude shelter, man has found himself in homes a little too snug to contain his family comfortably, much less accommodate extra living and leisure activities.

In these days of tightened budgets, a five-to-ten thousand dollar item for a new room is beyond the reach of most families, so a remodeling concept that stretches rooms at modest cost is welcome news.

The $600, do-it-yourself cost estimate for a versatile 6x8-foot addition known as the Elbow Room is possible because it uses existing electrical and heating facilities of the room it adjoins, and needs no plumbing.

Select Site First

The easiest, most economical positioning for an Elbow Room is at an existing window or door, at least four feet wide. This means less wall area to remove and reduces header construction.

First step is to decide how the room is to be used. Built on as a bunk room for children, it takes beds out of the way, leaving most of the bedroom space for play or studying.

Or the Elbow Room can be a dressing area, freeing extra space in the master bedroom. Some persons may prefer a greenhouse off the family room, a sewing or crafts center, or a television-stereo entertainment area.

If the room is to be used as an art studio, for music practice, or for cluttered activities, bifold louvered wood doors may be added. Built next to a family room, it adds versatility for entertaining.

The room is built on a slab or footings, finished to complement the house exterior, and has a shed or gable roof. Interior is western board paneling and various window treatments are possible. The Elbow Room was designed to conform to model codes.

Materials may range from $400 to $600. A kitchenette adaptation costs more, because of appliances, plumbing and wiring.

Detailed plans and an eight-page color booklet of Elbow Room ideas are available for 25 cents in coin from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 545-6P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204.

Room Stretcher Frees Space

"Elbow Room" added to children's room provides area for bunk beds, frees space for play, studying. Do-it-yourselfer can add 6x8-foot sewing center, home office-den, or greenhouse for under $600. Booklet, plans are available for 25 cents in coin from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 545-6P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204.

Garden Club Meeting Set

Mrs. Durwood Cobb, president of the Fleur de lis Garden Club, has announced that the January meeting originally scheduled for January 11 has been changed to January 15 because it conflicted with the Dallas Symphony performance in Cameron.

Program for the January meeting will concern pollution and litter. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Luecke with Mrs. Hal Stanislaw and Mrs. Jack Woods serving as co-hostesses.

EARL BERNARD MURRAY

Associate Conductor Has Three Decades Experience

The Dallas Symphony Orchestra will be in Cameron January 11, giving three concerts that day. Two will be given for school students, one for first through 6th grade, and the other for junior high and high school. The third will be an evening performance for adults.

Prominent in the daytime concerts will be Earl Bernard Murray, associate conductor.

Murray, who has lived and breathed orchestra since the day he was born, has more than three decades of podium experience behind him. The San Francisco native was a precocious child who first conducted an orchestra at the age of 12; four years later he became the youngest member ever of the San Francisco Symphony when he joined its trumpet section at 16.

It was only natural that the Californian would go into music professionally, for the musical tradition in his family goes back at least four generations and his father is in his 47th year as conductor of the popular Golden Gate Park Band.

Even as a teen-ager trumpeter in the San Francisco Orchestra, Murray had a great interest in conducting. Pierre Monteux was conductor of the orchestra then and Murray began playing from a full score rather than from a single trumpet part, penciling in notes as he observed the maestro in action.

Monteux noticed the youth often staring up at him and he became annoyed. When he discovered the youth's interest, however, Monteux invited the young man to study with him.

Murray obviously did well for he found himself named successively rehearsal conductor, assistant conductor and associate conductor.

He became resident conductor when the orchestra was principally under the direction of guests following the Monteux tenure.

From 1959 to 1966 he was music director of the San Diego Symphony and during these seven years doubled the number of concerts, vastly increased average attendance, founded choral and ballet adjuncts, introduced promenade and tour concerts, and brought the orchestra "to the doorstep of greatness."

Murray has taught at the University of California, San Francisco College, San Diego State College and given seminars at the University of Arizona and the University of Utah.

He has recently been musical director of the San Francisco Ballet, sister company of the New York City Ballet.

Murray is a long time friend of fellow Monteux student Anshel Brusilow, Executive Director and Conductor of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra.

Spacecraft Will Examine Foreign, U. S. Environment

By Peter Mosley

HOUSTON

Hundreds of experiments, ranging from locating icebergs in the Antarctic to spotting locust breeding grounds in Saudi Arabia and analyzing the haze over Los Angeles, are being planned for the space agency's first major examination of mankind's environment.

Scientists from all over the world proposed more than 700 experiments for the two earth - orbiting spacecraft which will conduct the examination with an array of cameras and sensors.

They are the first Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS-A), due for launch next spring into a near-polar orbit 565 miles above earth which will keep it synchronous with the sun, and the skylab three-man orbiting station planned to start operations about one year later.

So far, the National Aironautics and Space Administration (NASA) has accepted about 150 experiment proposals. They came from scientists in 29 states and the District of Columbia and from 22 foreign countries. Another 270 proposals were rejected, and the rest are being evaluated.

The two earth-survey projects represent NASA's answer to those who say the space program is a wasteful luxury.

Even NASA's foes in Congress stand to benefit from the surveys. Senators William Proxmire, D-Wisc., and Walter Mondale, D-Minn., who have spearheaded the regular attacks on the space agency's budget, can note two experiments planned for studying the ecology, land planning and weather in the Great Lakes region of Wisconsin, and another for studying land use management in Minnesota.

A total of 10 experiments, however, will focus on Texas, and eight on California.

A cross-section of the experiments indicates the ambitious scope of the projects' domestic studies include:

- Vegetation damage from highway construction in Maine.
- Pollution of Lake Pontchartrain, La.
- Effectiveness of measures to control pink bollworm infestation of cotton in the Imperial Valley of California.
- Grazing of wild and domestic animals on public lands in the west.
- Protection of the seacoast and tidal marshes of New Jersey.
- Land use in Bosnywash, the great urban stretch from Boston to Washington, D.C.
- Ecological effects of the Gulf Stream off the east coast.
- An inventory of the timber resources in all the major types of forest in the United States.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Year of the Child

Some have called this "The Year of the Child" because of the attention that should be paid to the health and welfare of our Nation's young.

Certainly, we at the National Institute of Mental Health have made our No. 1 priority the matter of promoting the mental health of children and preventing, treating, and rehabilitating from mental illness.

To this end, we have been working hard with all kinds of organizations and with staff specially charged to study and recommend sound activities for child mental health. We believe that this is going to pay off in new and improved services for children which eventually will be seen in every community in the land.

A number of exciting concepts and recommendations have been made which should aid toward this goal.

The theme has emerged that services for children should be designed around the child in a family context as a community member and not in isolation.

Along with this goes new emphasis on and the development of services for children in the pre-school area, which can head off illness and promote mental health.

State Sen. Henry Grover Files For Governor Post

State Sen. Henry C. (Hank) Grover of Houston Saturday filed for the Republican nomination for governor.

The 10 year veteran legislator's filing came as no surprise. Since June 4, he has traveled over 20,000 miles across Texas, speaking to Republican groups, non-partisan clubs and contacting news media, calling for changes in state government and saying that he would be a candidate.

Sen. Grover said he will make his formal announcement in January, stating his platform at that time.

Among the points he will press hardest for are adoption of no-fault insurance and major revisions of the bail bond system which presently permits repeat offenders to go free and commit additional crimes.

Grover said he filed now because "there has been a lot of talk lately about various possible Republican gubinatorial candidates and I want it made clear that I'm in the race to stay."

Grover said he is not concerned about a primary opponent as he is certain he has strong grassroots support among Republican primary voters.

"Republican primary voters are practical people and will choose the candidate with governmental experience and proven vote getting ability. They are tired of working for, contributing to and voting for inexperienced candidates, the Houston senator said.

Grover served in the Texas House of Representatives for three terms as a conservative Democrat and joined the Republican party in 1966.

He has served two terms in the Texas State Senate.

Skid Season Nets Warning

Kids may get a big "bang" from skidding their feet across the winter ice but for motorists the bang from a skid can be much more serious and unpleasant.

Since it's skid season in many parts of the country the Tire Industry Safety Council suggests it's a good time to review prevention and cure techniques.

To prevent skids:

* Keep tires properly inflated. To prevent swerving while braking, tire pressures on the same axle must be equal.

* Drive more slowly on slippery roads and approach intersections with particular caution.

* Never jam on brakes; pump them to avoid locking wheels, which can cause a skid.

If a skid starts:

* Take your foot off the gas.

* Keep off the brakes; braking only makes the skid worse.

* Steer into the skid by turning wheels in the direction in which your rear wheels are aliding.

* When the car comes out of the skid, straighten your wheels and pump brakes gently to slow down.

Polls Show Briscoe

Briscoe for Governor campaigners, currently criss-crossing Texas in the herculean task of setting up 254 county campaign units, were given a faint ray of hope and sunshine in the late fall when the Longview News-Journal and the Denton Enterprise released results of their gubernatorial polls that saw Dolph Briscoe leap to the front by margins of 6 to 1 and 3 to 1 respectively.

Now it is nearing the first of a new year. And with the January 1, 1972 New Year's date, attention will be focused on the race for the Governor's mansion.

Central Texas, long the "Bellwether" of traditionally torrid Texas political fights, produced a poll two weeks ago that indicated the governor's race would be strictly "no-contest" if the election had been held the first of this month. According to the Williamson County Sun, sampling Georgetown and area voters, Briscoe ran away with the votes. Racking up an astounding 9 to 1 margin over Barnes, Yarborough and Smith, Briscoe gathered strength from college student voters as well as the city-country electorate.

Jumping to far north Texas and the city of Bowie news of another poll rolled in, this time termed a "Straw Vote" and conducted by Jim Winters, editor and publisher of the Bowie News. Once again, the name of Briscoe headed the list of the four contenders -- announced and unannounced. Briscoe gathered up 50.7% of all votes; Barnes 33.3%; Yarborough 10.1% and Smith 2.8%. Only 3.1% of that area's voters were undecided at that time.

That's what makes saucers exciting — no telling where you'll land! No steering . . . no brakes . . . no telling which way you'll turn or how fast you'll go.

Swirling may be exciting on a snow-laden hill. It's something else again on the rugged slopes of life. So many parents who want the very best for their youngsters are living with the gnawing fear of how a child's future may unfold.

The Church offers sound answers to our fear. Religious training provides steering in a human life. Moral principles become the necessary brakes. And for the continuing uphill climb which beckons and challenges youthful souls, faith unlocks the resources of spiritual power.

Indians' Dash To Dacca Was Classic Military Push

By Granville Watts
Reuter Correspondent

NEW DELHI

The Indian army's 12-day dash to Dacca was a classic military campaign in which huge supply and movement problems were overcome.

The Indians had to battle across some of the world's most difficult terrain, moving their tanks and guns across immense rivers, some of them more than a mile wide.

The swiftness of the Indian advance and the haste of the Pakistani retreat in some places was shown by the fact that at the town of Branhmandaria, the Inians captured the airconditioned command bunker intact -- with the table still laid for dinner at the officers mess.

The fastest Indian thrust came from the north-east after the crucial battle for Akhaura in which the Indian 57th division routed the well-dug-in Pakistani forces.

The Pakistan army had established a defense line at Akhaura with bunkers commanding all roads. The Indians simply went round the defenses and tackled the enemy from the flanks and rear -- a tactic which was repeated again and again in the east with devastating results.

Col. Himmeth Singh, a tall officer of the Indian brigade of guards, spoke with admiration of the way his troops fought at Akhaura.

He said the Indian infantry had faced some Pakistani tanks and captured them.

"Our chaps went in on foot, dodging the tank shells. They got very good at it. We cornered their tanks and captured them," he said.

Col. Singh said the Mukti Bahini guerrillas had been a big help to the army.

"We carried out a massive helicopter crossing of the Megna River. Most of the brigade was taken over by helicopters," he said.

"We had some difficulty on the other side from the Pakistanis, but we got a lot of help from the Mukti Bahini. They acted as scouts for us and organized ambushes of the retreating Pakistanis.

"The Pakistan army ran away after Akhaura and they went on running," the pipe-smoking colonel said.

As the Pakistanis retreated they blew up bridge after bridge. They thought the blown bridges would hold up the Indian advance. But Indian engineers built diversionary routes around the bridges where the land was dry and on the smaller rivers they quickly put up pontoon and other bridges.

Heavy artillery guns were towed up rivers on rafts by launches. Where there was no transport available the troops, just walked.

"Some of my men have walked 125 miles in 12 days," said Col. M. S. Dhillon, a Sikh officer in charge of a battery of mountain guns.

He had just seen two 5.5 inch medium guns arrive after a day-long trip up the Mega River.

The guns were set up in a field and ready to fire when the word came through that Dacca had surrendered.

There was visible evidence of the Pakistani retreat all along the road from Akhaura.

Dozens of bunkers showed no trace of damage, bearing witness to the swift departure of the Pakistanis.

The Pakistanis did put up a fight in two places -- at Khulna in the south and Hili in the north-west.

In both spots the Pakistanis, well dug in as usual, held out for more than a week and only gave up when the position became hopeless.

Indian officers were amazed at the huge amounts of supplies they found in towns like Jessore.

In many cases they found the medium weapons of the Pakistanis such as machine guns were superior to their own.

On the other hand, one of the Indians best weapons was the Russian-built, 14-ton PT-76 amphibious tank which could churn across rivers and take the Pakistanis by surprise.

Psychologist Recommends Desensitity Programs

By Joel N. Shurkin

PHILADELPHIA

Insensitivity to the world around him is the only way a sane man can cope with modern civilization, a Canadian psychologist has reported.

The argument for insensitivity is so great, Dr. Lawrence La Fave of the University of Windsor, Ont., said, that he does not understand why sensitivity training through nude encounter groups has become a fad.

He recommends insensitivity training through nudeless disencounter groups.

The psychologist running the group should be insensitive enough to get as many people as possible in the group and clip them enormous amounts of money. That way the psychologist can set a good example.

The need for insensitivity is obvious, La Fave reported.

"Consider the merchant," he said in the paper delivered recently to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Would be succeed in our sick, status - seeking, rat-racing society, he must be sufficiently insensitive to foreclose the mortgage on that poverty-stricken widow of 10 kids. The ladder of success is fashioned of human bodies."

"It is common knowledge that surgeon should not operate on his wife. He's too nervous or emotionally sensitive to do a good job. . ."

"A successful Bowery bum does not permit sensitivity to the condescending stares of passersby to prevent his hand from reaching out."

Atheletes must be insensitive to pain to succeed. Prostitutes never become sensitive enough to give it away for free, he said.

Even presidents of major countries must be insensitive to rise above the masses. Sensitivity leads to heart trouble, ulcers, high blood pressure and the like, La Fave reported.

Most crimes are committed by people who were hurt in their sensitivity. It was Lt. Calley's love for his troops that motivated "him to attack what he perceived as a threat to them," La Fave said. The same feelings motivated the Manson family.

It is the sensitive patriot who would lead to World War III. The answer is a desensitivity program, one must start with desensitivity to one's own hypocrisy, the psychologist claimed.

Desensitivity group session would help everyone in the session should be nudeless. Nudeless leads to sensitivity.

Instead of trying to get to know each other better, persons at such sessions would be given ear muffs and nose plugs and "are instructed not to taste or touch each other and to shut up."

La Fave's paper was delivered in a symposium on humor in science.
